IEP Quality for School Leadership Teams

General educators play a pivotal role in ensuring the success and well-being of students with Individualized Education Programs (IEPs). This comprehensive 6-hour (one day, in-person) training is designed to equip school leadership teams to support collaboration between general and special educators to craft and implement high quality IEPs within the context of Connecticut's new IEP requirements. We encourage school and district teams to attend together to increase the application of the concepts and strategies presented to their specific context. Teams may include general and special education administrators, PPT chairs, teacher leaders, and others who serve an important role in ensuring the success of students with disabilities. Registration must be completed by each individual.
